About the Practice

Stafford Veterinary Center is a full-service veterinary hospital located in Stafford Springs, CT, providing quality, compassionate care since 1981. We offer care for small, large, and exotic animals. Our practice consists of two locations, five full time doctors, and a talented growing support staff. Additionally, we are in the process of building and relocating to a larger 24-hour facility.

Our History

Dr. Mordasky was born and raised on a farm in Stafford Springs, CT. His love for animals began in his childhood as he grew up with chickens, cows, and other animals. Later in life, he graduated from Purdue University with an undergraduate degree in Animal Sciences, and graduated with his Ph.D. from Purdue University's College of Veterinary Medicine. After briefly practicing in Indiana, Dr. Mordasky moved back to Stafford Springs, where he and his wife Judith built Stafford Veterinary Center from a small, one-room practice to its current state, with two locations, five full time doctors, and a support staff consisting of thirty-two people. Dr. and Mrs. Mordasky have been together for many years and happily raised their children in Stafford Springs.

Stafford Veterinary Center FAQ

What are the hospital hours?

Stafford Veterinary Center is open Monday-Thursday 7:30AM to 7:00PM, Friday 7:30AM to 6:00PM, Saturday 8:00AM to 4:00PM, and open Sundays for emergencies. We are available 24 hours a day for emergencies and sick animals.

Where do I call if it is an emergency?

If your animal has a true medical emergency, you can call during office hours at our main number (860) 684-5868. If it is after office hours, our regular line will transfer to our emergency line at (860) 729-4055.

What is considered a medical emergency?

There are many medical emergencies, but the only way to determine if a pet is in dire need of medical help is if you see a doctor for an examination. A pretty good indication of an emergency is if your pet stops eating or drinking, stops urinating/defecating normally, or has abnormal behavior in general. At that time, you should then contact a veterinarian for an appointment.

Where do I take my pet in case of emergency?

After contacting our emergency line at 860-729-4055 during after hours, a doctor will instruct you on the location in which to bring your animal based on the emergency.

How have your policies and procedures changed due to COVID-19?

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, our office has worked diligently everyday to ensure the safety of you, your pets, as well as themselves. As well as proper PPE for all staff and heavy cleaning of all surfaces and high traffic areas, we have shifted our services a bit from the normal. We ask all clients upon arrival to call our office to notify us, and to please wait on the front porch at the marked locations with a mask on at all times. Once it is your turn, a technician or doctor will be out to see you to discuss what needs to be done in the appointment, and your pet will be brought inside for the appointment while you remain outside. At this time, we are beginning to welcome in some clients for certain circumstances, and upon the doctor's approval. We still ask that only one person come in at all times for the appointment.

What dog and cat food brands do you sell?

At Stafford Veterinary Center we are happy to provide you with two different kinds of prescription food brands, being Royal Canin and Hill. We are supplied with all different flavors and sizes of both wet and dry, cat and dog food. If we do not have the kind you are looking for, we can place an order for your specialized food to be in within a week.

Is it really necessary to bring my dog and/or cat in for a comprehensive exam?

Yes, this is required in order to refill and properly prescribe your pet's flea and tick and heartworm medication.

Does heartworm prevention and flea prevention need to be given year-round?

Yes, the winter is not cold enough to kill off any fleas, ticks, and mosquitoes.

How important is it to get my pet tested for Heartworm/Lyme disease?

Your pet should be annually tested for heartworm Lyme disease. Lyme is transmitted through ticks, which are bountiful in the Northeast due to a constant altering of weather, and a large deer population from which they are also spread. The Northeast is known as the Lyme capital of the world, and we urge you to continually check your pets through the years.

We just found a stray pet. What should we do?

Initially you should contact animal control in your town so they can scan the animal for a microchip. If you locate a stray cat, you can feel free to contact our office, where the Army of Compassion will assist you further.

How do I transfer my pet's records from a previous clinic?

Please first contact your previous veterinarian clinic and ask them to send over records to staffordveterinarycenter@gmail.com. Any hard copies of records or animal history you may have can also be sent to us by email, or brought in person to be scanned into our system, unless notified otherwise to send over the paperwork ahead of time.

When do you need fecal samples, and why?

Your pet should have their fecal matter checked at 8 weeks, 12 weeks, and then twice a year to check for worms and intestinal parasites. These parasites can be passed to humans, so it is important to have a fecal sample checked at least once a year, but preferably two times. If there is some concern with diet, bathroom habits, or behavior in general, a stool sample might be suggested by the doctor even before 6 months old.

What types of animals do you see?

We see all types of different animals. We see companion animals, equine, avian, reptiles, pocket pets, and all farm animals.

I have found a wild animal that appears to be in distress; can I bring it to you?

Our advice with any wild animal is initially, let nature take its course; it is considered a wild animal for a reason, and it is best you do not approach it for your own safety. We suggest that if you do step in and would like to get help for the wild animal, to contact either the DEEP dispatch number at (860) 424-3000 or your town's animal control department.

Do you offer any discounts?

We offer a 10% discount for seniors (those over 65), 10% discount for active military, as well as 10% for our first responders to include police, fire, and EMT personnel. Each month there are different specials and discounts announced by the practice online as well as on our "specials" board in the clinic.

Do I need an appointment for my pet to see a veterinarian?

Yes, ideally you should make an appointment to ensure a doctor is available at that time. However, if you feel that it is more urgent for your pet to be seen, we will always do our best to fit you in as soon as possible.

How do I go about scheduling a surgery?

Please call our office in reference to any questions regarding surgeries that need to be scheduled. Our front desk staff will work with you on the availability of days and doctors for the surgery, as well as directions for before and after surgery care of your pet.

How do I need to prepare myself and my pet for a scheduled surgery?

The night before a surgery, your animal can eat dinner, but do not allow your pet any food after midnight. Water is safe to give to your pet up until drop off for the surgery. Drop off the morning of the surgery is between 7:30AM and 8AM, and a deposit of half the estimate is required at that time.

How do I schedule a road call for the doctor to come out to me?

Please call the office and be ready to explain exactly what you would like done, when you are available for the appointment, where the animals are located, and if you have a doctor preference.

We would like to board our pets at your facility. What do we need to bring?

If your pets will be boarding with us, we ask that you clearly label all of your belongings you are sending with your pet. You can give us their daily food they will need, any medications they take, as well as one toy and a blanket to comfort them during their stay! If there are any specific instructions regarding food or medications please make sure this information is sent to the front desk.

How do we know when our pet needs to schedule a dental appointment/surgery?

At your pet's bi-annual appointment, the doctor will examine the teeth and gums to see what kind of state they are in. Hints of problems within the mouth include trouble eating and bad breath.

At what age can I have my pet spayed or neutered?

The time at which your pet should get spayed or neutered greatly varies per the different species, breed, age, and size. Please contact our front desk staff or consult with a doctor through a scheduled appointment if this is a procedure you would like to look into and have additional questions on.

How often does my pet need the rabies vaccination?

The state law requires that every animal have their initial rabies vaccination at 12 weeks old. After the first rabies vaccination at 3-4 months, the following year should be a one-year rabies vaccine (good for one year), meaning the next year your pet can finally get a three-year rabies vaccine (good for three years).

What other routine vaccinations should my pet get?

Other routine vaccinations that should be looked into for your pets include (depending on the species); Lepto, Lyme, Rabies, Distemper, Feline Leukemia, Parvovirus, Canine Parainfluenza, Bordetella, heartworm preventatives, and flea/tick preventives.
